NEW COMPROMISE SOUGHT TO INSURE TAX LEGISLATION

LA FOLLETTE GROUP IN MOVE TO STAVE OFF DEFEAT.

TWO BILLS, PLAN Blaine One-Man Commission and Committee Rate Features Favored.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison.—With defeat once again admittedly facing their attempt to enact a tax measure at the present session of the legislature the La Follette progressive republicans Monday were turning toward a further compromise in an effort to bring together the factions which have divided over the entry of the governor into the fight.

The plan being advanced Monday, with the intimation that it has the approval of the governor, is for solid progressive support to the rate features of the finance committee bill, and for support to the administration features contained in the Blaine tax bill, including the one-man tax commission.

This agreement, reached at the conference between progressive leaders, including Robert M. La Follette, Jr., and Governor Blaine, has not yet been presented to the senate progressives, but the opinion is expressed by those behind the move that it will be favorably received. If not, they admit that some further attempt at compromise will be needed before a tax bill is able to muster the needed 17 votes.

Compromise Features
The features of the governor's bill relating to administration, which, it is now proposed, shall form a separate measure, call for a reduction from 40 assessors to 10, for change in the system in the valuation of railroad property and for a one-man tax commission.

The argument for a one-man tax body will be based on the contention that the commission failed to increase the assessment of railroad property in proportion to other state property, with a resultant lower return from railroad taxes, those backing the move.

Governor Blaine is said to have criticized the present Wisconsin commission at the recent Chicago conference on railroad valuation. He was up for passage Tuesday with a favorable committee report.

Even the proposition of a one-man tax body is not without its doubters. It is pointed out that the measure is not a bill, but a resolution, and that it is not a bill, but a resolution, and that it is not a bill, but a resolution.

Progressive republicans Monday said that they hoped to get out of getting one of the three tax bills through the senate. If unable at this time to get favorable action on the bill, they predicted a special session to consider the subject.

Schindler Asks Compliance With Rules on Garbage

Complaints made to city authorities concerning collection of garbage since it has been taken over by Joseph Schindler show that many people misunderstand the rules and regulations which must be closely lived up to if garbage is to be removed under city sponsorship.

Some complaints have been received, and after investigation, it was found that the complainants did not have a card in the window. Schindler and his men have been only a few weeks at this work, and are not yet entirely familiar with all the homes desiring collection. Therefore, no one should complain unless they have a card in the window.

With a card in the window, the rules are simple. The garbage must be placed in a receptacle on the ground floor, and some living in flats, have left the receptacle outside the door, even though they are up three stories.

"A convenient place" is also another specification made, as Mr. Schindler asks that in interpreting this term, he says that with cooperation he can make more easily make city garbage collection a great success. It has been pointed out that those first to complain are the ones who do not live up to the rules which are necessary for complete and frequent collection.

Ku Klux Defended by Pastor as 100 Percent American

Taking as his text the lines from St. Matthew, of "judge not lest you be not judged," the Rev. Frederick F. Case, at the evening service of the Cargill Methodist church, launched into a discussion of the Ku Klux Klan, which he declared is one of the greatest American institutions and a power behind the Protestant church. Stating that he was not himself a member of the order, that he had not been asked to say anything about the order, but felt that we should not pass hasty judgment on persons or institutions without knowing much about them, Dr. Case dwelt on the various ideals which are set forth by the Ku Klux Klan in its constitution.

Dr. Case said the Rev. Newell Dwight Hiss of New York had recently conducted an investigation to determine whether a member of the Ku Klux Klan had ever been convicted of a crime and that he received 250 telegrams from as many cities answering in the negative.

"American Institution"
"Our own state legislature passed a bill intended to put out of business the Ku Klux Klan, but Governor Blaine vetoed it."

Rockford.—More than 700 candidates were initiated into the invisible empire of the Ku Klux Klan at a ceremony held at mid-night Saturday in Rocky Cut, five miles northeast of here.

Hundreds of members of the order from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, and some from Iowa and Illinois attended. Original plans for the open air ceremony called for a parade here Saturday afternoon, in which it was said any attempt to hold a parade of masked figures would be stopped. Instead, the ceremony was held at the scene of the evening ceremony, where a national officer spoke.

POLICEMAN SAXBY HIT BY BULLET IN NEGRO FEUD

PATROLMAN VICTIM. THEN HERO, IN SHOOTING AFFRAY.

NABS GUN MAN Wounded Officer Arrests Two, Then Is Taken to Mercy Hospital.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

James Lacey 39 is in the Rock county jail under $5,000 bail on two charges which make him liable, if convicted, for 30 years in Wisconsin. One assault with intent to murder, the other an assault evincing a depraved mind and regardless of human life. Lacey was returned to work at the Myers hotel under commitment.

Patrolman William S. Saxby was at the scene of the shooting when the triumphant hero of a murderous negro shooting affray on West Milwaukee street between 530 and 6 a. m. Sunday, when he was struck in the back by the first of a series of four bullets fired from a .38 calibre revolver held by James Lacey, colored, at Ben Reynolds, also colored, as the latter fled down the street for safety.

Single-handed and with blood streaming from the wound in his side, the policeman drew his own revolver and captured both Lacey and Reynolds, who was nearly a block away. Not until he had marched them both to the police station and had secured the services of a physician, did he yield to the demands of his fellow officers that he be taken to Mercy hospital.

Without taking an anesthetic, Saxby submitted while doctors removed the bullet, and was resting comfortably Monday, with prospects of leaving the hospital at an early date.

The bombardment of Reynolds by Lacey, an employee of the C. & N. W. roundhouse here, was the climax of a long feud between the two negroes. Lacey, who is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, reported that his face was still sore from the assault. Sunday afternoon, the two negroes met at the roundhouse, and Lacey, according to the police, accused the other negro of being untrue to his word. Lacey, who is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, reported that his face was still sore from the assault.

At the trial, Lacey was charged with the murder of Reynolds. Lacey, who is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, reported that his face was still sore from the assault.

Marion Married to Mrs. Ben Sarow at Crown Point

The Reverend Leland L. Marion, aged 28, pastor of the First Christian church, Janesville for three years, and now pastor of a Christian church at Whiting, Ind., was married a few days ago to Mrs. Lola Sarow, aged 29, divorced wife of Ben Sarow, a member of the congregation here and over whose marital difficulties, the church was split into two factions and a number of members seceded last winter. The news came to the Christian church here Sunday and those who had faithfully stood by Marion in all the scandal rumors and stories of the past six months were shocked into silence by an open denunciation.

Over the long distance phone from Whiting, Mr. Marion talked to the Gazette.

"Yes, I am married. I do not want anything published about it," he said.

"When were you married?"

"I do not have to say. I was married by a preacher of our church and all in regular order. I did it because I wanted a home. I did it too after consultation with leading members of the church and the Brotherhood—men who are far greater than I will ever be and I followed their advice."

Finally Marion said he was married at Crown Point.

An Associated Press message to the Gazette at 3 p. m. today says Marion was married May 17, by Rev. G. B. Dunning, license being obtained the same day.

Mr. Sarow was granted a divorce from Ben Sarow on March 14th in an uncontested suit in which he charged non-support. Sarow was (Continued on Page 5.)

4 Accidents Is Week-End Record Here

One car was wrecked and two people were injured slightly in four automobile accidents in the city over the week-end.

The car of Walter Swanson, 530 South Franklin street, was run into by a Buick, 508 Atwood avenue, Madison, at the corner of Pleasant and Jackson street, Sunday morning, damaging a back fender, running board and rear wheel. The Buick was a 1921 model.

Walter Swanson's sister had one hand on the steering wheel.

At Watchman Al Smith had one foot run over by a car at the corner of West Milwaukee and River streets, Saturday night. He continued at his post, apparently unharmed.

Driving his sedan down Center avenue at midnight, Sunday, Alex Kettle, 302 South River street, failed to negotiate a sharp curve in the center of the street beginning at Center street. When his friend yelled at him, he swerved so quickly in the other direction that the car struck a curb and a pole, badly damaging it. No one was hurt.

Boys throwing stones broke the windshield on John Beethner's car as he was driving on West Wisconsin street, Sunday night. Chief Charles Newman intends to have them brought before the judge.

Bandits Are Enrolled in Peking Army

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Peking.—The Chinese government is proceeding at Tientsin, according to reports received at the American legation Monday, to enroll bandits into the national army.

The government is desiring to become soldiers are slipping away, leaving their rifles behind.

Members of the legion feel that it will be only a matter of days until the eight foreigners still held on Pootzu mountain are released.

NP RADICAL HEADS SCHOOL STRAY SHOT MAY BE FATAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Green Bay.—Mrs. Joseph Arcand, 512 Green Bay, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded late Sunday by a bullet fired by two boys engaging in target practice at Bay Beach. The bullet entered her left breast, she was removed to a hospital, but removal of the bullet was pronounced impossible. Elmer Reno and "Chubby" Massy, 18, reported the accident to the police immediately and were released.

THREE HURT AT CROSSING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Oshkosh.—Miss Harriet Rockwood and Richard Hackett, both of Oshkosh, and William S. Allen of Milwaukee, were badly injured in an accident at a crossing Sunday night. A Northwestern passenger train struck the automobile Mr. Allen was driving.

Death and Damage in Hurricane

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Regina, Sask.—One man was killed, several cottages were blown to pieces and 600 miles of farm lands were covered with hail and torrential rains Sunday night in this province. The dead man was struck by lightning.

12 BRIDGES ARE WASHED AWAY

Winipeg.—Reports were received here Monday of a heavy rainstorm which broke over the Margaret district, carrying away 12 bridges along the Canadian National railway between Winnipeg and Dufferin, and washing away the grade at Seven Crossings.

Ninette was also reported to have been affected by the storm.

WOMAN DROWNS IN FULTON MILL RACE

Rockfordite, Blinded by Rain, Walks to Death While Seeking Shelter.

Becoming confused in the driving rain as she attempted to make her way to a shelter, a woman from the north bridge over Rock river, Mrs. Mina M. Cronk, wife of John M. Cronk, superintendent of the Old Colony chair company, Rockford, Ill., wandered to the edge of the water and fell four feet into the mill race and was drowned about 9 p. m. Saturday, at Fulton.

She was rescued about a half hour later in the grating about 30 rods below by Oliver Murwin and young Lindgren of Rockford, a day later the body was brought to Janesville by Coroner Lynn A. Whaley, and was taken to Rockford, Monday.

In Fishing Party
Mr. and Mrs. Cronk, accompanied by a Mr. Lindgren and son, arrived by automobile from Rockford about 8 p. m. to spend the week-end fishing, having been in the city since they came to the same place. Mr. and Mrs. Cronk were fishing from the north bridge when it started to rain.

Mr. Cronk went toward where the automobile was parked near the mill race. That was the last seen of her alive.

Crisis Not Heard
The party had cooked supper and had gone fishing afterward when the rain started. The only theory is that she became confused and walked right off the bank, and plunged into the rushing water which has a heavy current. No one heard her cry for help.

With Fireman Sam Flinnow driving the chief's car, Fire Chief C. J. Murphy went to Fulton with the body and returned to the city at 10:45 p. m. and made a fast trip but there was no chance of resuscitating the woman.

VELLI FINED $200 FOR DRY LAW VIOLATION

Pleading guilty to liquor possession, Frank Velli, roomer at the S. H. Blythe hotel, 200 North Main street, was fined $200 and costs or five months by Judge H. L. Maxwell, Monday. He has not yet paid the fine. J. G. McWilliams appeared for him and Chief Charles Newman told of having found two empty five-gallon jugs and some alcohol in Velli's room in raid of the Blythe home.

Chief Velli, the possession case was adjourned to June 8, upon agreement of his attorney, L. A. Avery, and District Attorney S. G. Dunlap.

In the third case resulting from a raid made the same day as that on Blythe, Joseph Moccero took a change of venue to Circuit court, Elmer H. Ryan representing him. Judge Maxwell raised his bail from $500 to $1,000.

W. H. Wadell, who has admitted trying to sell mortgaged cars, was released on his own recognizance until June 18 and was allowed to return to his work in Milwaukee, agreeing to send a warrant to the court in Edgerton. George Blanchard appeared for him.

Others in municipal court, Monday, were: Earl T. Brown and Grant Rosier, each of whom paid $5.46, the former for arterial highway violation, the latter for making a complete turn at Milwaukee and Academy streets.

ISSUE WARRANTS FOR LANCASTER BANK OFFICIALS

INSTITUTION CLOSED AS SHORTAGE IS FOUND IN ACCOUNTS.

PAIR DISAPPEARS Vice President and Cashier of Wisconsin Institution Skip Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison.—Warrants were issued Monday by the state banking department for the arrest of J. A. Clark, vice president, and J. Harold Pugh, cashier of the People's State bank of Lancaster, according to Dwight T. Parker, commissioner of banking. The doors of the institution were closed Saturday by the commissioner.

Both Clark and Pugh have absconded, Commissioner Parker announced. They left Lancaster Saturday, he said, after saying that they were going to the home of the banking commissioner at Fennimore to see him. Neither man showed up at the place, according to the report.

The banking department announced that Thomas Herried, chief examiner, had found a shortage in the accounts of the Lancaster bank. When he put in his appearance, Mr. Herried declared that both Pugh and Clark immediately left town without waiting to see him.

Commissioner Parker attributes the condition of the bank to the fact that the vice president and cashier had absconded. He said that the bank had been unable to pay for itself, Mr. Parker declared, because the vice president and cashier had absconded. WYLIE RAIDS GENEVA FARM

Elkhorn.—Sheriff Hal Wylie conducted a raid on the Fairbank farm at Cedar Point, Lake Geneva, seized a still and two quarts of alleged moonshine and arrested Frank Cochran, tenant. Cochran was brought to Elkhorn and furnished bail of $1,000 for his appearance before Justice Charles Lyon on charges of manufacture and possession.

FARMER HURT BY LIGHTNING

Elkhorn.—Ludus Smith, 22, son of Halbert Smith, living on a farm north of Elkhorn, was on a farm struck by lightning as he was attending the milking of cows in the barn Sunday. The bolt, which knocked Smith unconscious, is believed to have come in over the electric wire which operates the milk machine. Smith was picked up for dead, but revived.

BOMB HOME OF SOCIALIST

Milwaukee.—A mysterious blast which broke every window in the home of Walter Kleckner in the village of Shorewood, an aristocratic suburb of Milwaukee, early Monday, has left the police without definite clues as to its origin. Shorewood police give some credence to the theory that the bomb was meant for a prominent socialist attorney who had been living in the house up to Dec. 15.

Central States Meeting in Madison.

[By Associated Press.]
Madison—Barberry eradication leaders from eight north central states will gather in Madison, Monday, for an inspection trip to observe the effect of chemicals in the destruction of common barberry bushes.
Many areas in which the barberry has been found growing wild in southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northeastern Iowa have been treated with rock salt and sodium arsenate. These areas will be visited and the results of the treatments noted. Instruction will also be given in approved methods of applying the chemicals.

In addition to the state leaders the party will include Dr. F. E. Kempton, Washington, pathologist in charge of barberry eradication for the federal government; H. H. Fuller, and Carl Hanton, Minneapolis, officials of the conference for the prevention of grain rust; Donald G. Fletcher, and G. D. George, U. S. department of agriculture plant disease experts.

The state leaders who will make the trip are John W. Barling, Ohio;
R. E. Deacon, Indiana; W. P. Hoot,
Michigan; J. H. Hoot, Illinois; J. H.
Muncie, Iowa; Lynn D. Hutton, South
Dakota; L. W. Melander, Minnesota; and W. A. Walker, Wisconsin.

Instruction in the use of chemicals to destroy barberry will be given by Noel F. Thompson, Madison, who developed the chemical eradication process for the U. S. department of agriculture while co-operating with state authorities. The first wild area to be visited is at Black Earth, Dane county.

$225,000 IS 1923
BUILDING TOTAL

137 Permits Issued Since First of Year, 27 for New Dwellings.

Close to one-quarter of a million dollars' worth of construction has been commenced in Janesville since January 1, 1923, the actual figures of the building inspector George W.
Slightham, acting building inspector, on the value of the work being $224,870, and the total number of permits 137.

Included in the list of permits for the first five months of 1923 are 27 for new dwellings.

The month just closed has been the biggest of the year for total value of construction, $121,475, the month of April coming second, with $14,000.
March's total was $12,650; February, $15,345; January, $1,350.

Permits for five months have been issued as follows: January, four;
February, 11; March, nine; April, 53;
May, 60. Sixty-four inspections and $20,750 in fees are reported for May.

Nine Houses in May

Nine of the 51 permits issued in May were for new houses of an aggregate value of $23,000. The others were for the following: Private garages, 22; total, $5,500; one theater, $75,000; additions and alterations, 15;
$5,175; equipment and heating, 10;
$800; wrecking, one, $500; storage shed, one, $12,000.

Weekly Building Record

In the past week Mr. Slightham has given out nine building permits, including the one for the Saxe Bros.
theater on West Milwaukee street.

Others were as follows:

Garages—O. Erdman, 155 Ringold street, $200; John Jennings, 423 Garfield avenue, $200.

Porch and remodeling—St. C. Wilkinson, 1524 Magnolia avenue, $200;

Curio, 1500; Leo Curcio, 326 South
Pearl street, $100.

Furnaces—H. J. Mahtheil, 806 Locust street, $200; Mrs. Anna Knipp, 1302 Mineral Point avenue, $200.

Gasoline tank—A. Russell, 27-29
South Bluff street, $350.

Red Cross Nurse

Busy During May

With 226 pupils in 73 schools inspected, with 38 interviews and 45 hours' work in the office, May was a busy month for Miss Alice Glenn, Red Cross school nurse. Of the 226 inspections, 23 children were found to have defects, eight were excluded, 23 notices were sent to parents, and Miss Glenn talked with 27 pupils. In addition she made eight home calls, took care of eight children at the dentist's clinic.

Nineteen defects of the teeth were corrected, and three new cases were found which needed help among this line. Fourteen with tonsil trouble were found and the same number corrected. Nine were found to have eye trouble, and for the 19 new pupils found with vision trouble, 14 were corrected. Other defects found in new pupils were hearing, one; nasal breathing, four; speech, two;
glands, one; skin, five; and pediculosis, six.

Miss Glenn, in addition to this work, made one exhibit and arranged dental clinic report. With school out the middle of June, Miss Glenn expects to have less to do than during the busy school months.

1,500 Miles Are Traveled in May
by County Nurse

During the month of May an auto mobile carried Miss Anna Leutscher, a total of 1,500 miles, for her official duties as Rock county nurse. This is a distance equal to a trip to New York and half way back.

Probably the most important in her work during the month was the planning in the Jefferson county tuberculosis sanatorium of three patients. One of these was a man with a family, who for seven months had lived at home although aware of the condition. Miss Leutscher learned of it when his young daughter contracted tuberculosis of the hip. Sufficient pressure was then brought to bear that the man consented to enter the sanatorium.

A diphtheria carrier was discovered at a Bradford township school and Miss Leutscher cultured all the pupils to safeguard them. The county nurse made visits to 10 schools, total enrollment of which was 328.
She inspected 27, and found 145 with defects. Two pupils were excluded from school and 87 notices sent to parents. Sixty hours of her month's work were spent in schools, and she gave 10 talks to pupils and two to parents. As a truancy officer, she investigated two absentees and made four home calls.

The county nurse weighed and measured 258 pupils. Of these but 22 were of normal weight and seven 20 per cent above normal. Defects among the 271 pupils examined were as follows: defects in teeth, 47; tonsils, 42; eyes, 3; vision, 25; hearing, 7;
nasal breathing, 23; speech, 2; skin, 1; glands, 42; bones, 2; autism, 32;
and seven were found with symptoms of trouble with lungs, hearts or nerves.

In her home nursing work, Miss Leutscher made 11 visits to homes, to eight of which she had not been before. Her patients are one baby, one school child, two pre-natal patients, one maternity and two tuberculosis patients. She investigated six cases, five of which were communicable diseases and one delinquency, and accompanied the three tuberculosis patients to the sanatorium.

Besides this, she took care of 11 children under two years at health center, 22 between two and six years and two adults.

As to Governor Al Smith.

Governor Al Smith has written himself down as a very inconsistent person. In signing the bill repealing the Mullen-Gage law which had to do with the enforcement of prohibition in New York state, he emphasized the fact that his action would not in any way stop the enforcement of the law and that the police force of the state would still be required to carry out the provisions of the federal laws. That being the case, why did he sign the repeal? He explains that he does not believe in the Volstead law, that its provisions are too drastic, that it does not fix at a correct figure the alcoholic content of liquors permissible and that he is in favor of light wines and beer but never, no, never, a return of the saloon and its evils.

But Governor Smith will recognize that behind the repeal was all the vice and lawlessness, all the old saloon and cabaret crowd, all the Tammany political influence which has been built up and maintained by vice and disregard of law and the levying of tribute from the underworld, and all the bootleggers, rum runners, moonshiners, restaurant keepers and dance hall operators where business was likely to be disturbed by state officers and police-making raids from time to time. These are the elements in the glen-born New York and the other larger cities of the Empire state to which Al Smith has tied to himself with hooks of steel.

No one with a grain of sense will think for a moment that Mr. Smith has succeeded in repealing the Volstead law though his message with the signature on the repeal of the state law was an argument against national prohibition, the federal responsibility and the uselessness of a state law to assist.

The federal government will go right along doing what it can to enforce the law. But for a time the crook who sells and makes booze, the accessory crook who buys it from the bootlegger, the depraved men and women who cater to the vicious and the seeker for what he terms "high life" in the metropolis and the hip pocket brigade which has become a part of the life of the chief alien city of the nation, will all have a joyous holiday. New York today thinks in terms of Continental Europe and is gratified that at last she has been able to secede from a union which has constantly irritated her for a long time.

As for his political future Governor Smith has just whatever general support was possible outside of New York state. For while an effort will be made to commit the democratic party to the repeal of the Volstead law and a distinct wet attitude, the fact is patent that the party is not dominated by the state of New York, and its wet neighbors, New Jersey and Maryland. In the middle west and south the democratic party is committed to prohibition.

It is to be hoped that the situation will stimulate the federal government into some new and drastic action to carry out the federal laws. Governor Smith will have to aid and support such an effort according to his own statement. But what we want now is a clean lot of prohibition agents. Political hacks, hangers-on at headquarters, the errand-runner and "lost-out" of previous political campaigns, have had too many jobs in the enforcement of prohibition. To most of them a ten-dollar bill has looked like a million and they have been purchased by the bootleggers with their guilty millions as easily as one would a porker at the Union Stock yards. We have had too many prohibition agents who have neither taste for the job nor any interest in it other than the payroll.

Now if the same scrutiny will be made of the agent that one gives to a clerk or an employee who is about to be submitted to great temptation, we may have a few who will be able to tell a bootlegger without having a chemical analysis of his wares.

No sooner do we make up our mind that the world is getting wiser, than some one pours kerosene into a kitchen stove and the smell of illies of the valley gets into the air.

The Governor and the Ku Klux

Governor Blaine has vetoed the bill which would have regulated the Ku Klux Klan in the state and he is now able to command the vote of that organization if there be one in Wisconsin of any consequence in numbers or influence. It would make a stirring campaign if the governor should be the Ku Klux candidate for reelection. There would be haste to change political alignments and we would have the same bitter personal campaign which has disgraced Texas and other states of the south.

The Mary Ann system was relegated to the limbo by the legislature and one more of Senator Garvey's bill gets into the discard.

The British cartoonist who has been making fun of American art should remember that his nation is deeply interested in the steel engravings on the five dollar bills by which the English pound is now measured in value.

The trouble with John T. Adams, the republican national committee chairman, is that he thought

PLANNING FOR THE NEXT WAR

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—With the United States apparently about as far from war as it is possible for any nation to be in modern times, there actually is more war preparation going on today than there was a few months before the country entered the European struggle in 1917. The reason for this is that the lesson of preparedness was learned in that war and the government is bettering the instruction.

The War Department has embarked on war planning activities on a large scale and has detailed a number of its most efficient officers to the preparation of the nation for instant activity in case of emergency. This is not because any war cloud hangs over the country but because the army has come to the conclusion that it is ill-advised to await the appearance of such a cloud before getting ready for what it might bring.

Not so much is being done in the way of direct preparation of large bodies of soldiers. The preparation is industrial in nature. The great war proved as no previous one had done that modern warfare depends for success upon the industrial background of the armies. It takes five men behind the lines, the experts say, to equip and maintain one soldier on the fighting front. The preparation now going on is in connection with these more or less invisible agencies of war.

B. M. Baruch, upon his resignation of chairman of the War Industries Board in the last year, made eloquent recommendations for the industrial preparation of the country for war and these are being followed largely. The work has already progressed so far that the army officers now say that the manufacturers of the United States, depended upon to furnish quartermaster supplies, could get into production within 24 hours after the word went out from Washington.

The Quartermaster Corps has organized the country into nine zones presided over by Depot Quartermasters. They are at Boston, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Jeffersonville, Ind., Chicago, St. Louis, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and San Francisco.

These officers, through conferences with manufacturers of all sorts of material needed for the army, have made arrangements for the turning over of whole plants in war production or 24 hours' notice. In many cases contracts actually have been entered into, to take effect on notice from the United States. This will eliminate the long drawn out bidding and competing which delayed production prior to the last war. All that work has been done in advance and now all that is necessary to start the mills on army production is to say the word.

This does not mean that the goods actually will be ready for the army on instant notice; it means that production will begin. Some supplies are on hand in considerable quantities. In advance, but only in very few cases are such supplies actually near adequate in the needs of an army on a war footing. Varying periods would be required to furnish the supplies. Six months from the time production started would be required for uniforms, hats and leggings. This is because the distinctive kind of material used in this equipment does not have a regular commercial market and therefore is not regularly manufactured. The cloth would have to be manufactured before the uniforms could be made. Shoes would require four months and so on down through the whole long list of articles which go to make up the supplies for the quartermaster corps.

The war planning with the industries must include a determination of what will be required, supplies already on hand, when and where the goods are to be delivered and how they shall be produced.

In 1917 there was great haste to equip the army and get it overseas. Inexperienced officers were in charge of much of the work and the dollar-a-year men who came to Washington knew nothing of war. Where competitive bidding was slow, contracts were awarded on a cost plus basis, a system which has been since recognized as pernicious inasmuch as it encouraged war contractors to make the things they manufactured cost as much as possible. They received as their profit, 15 per cent over and above what the materials produced cost. It therefore increased their profit if the materials cost a great deal. The necessity for haste led to carelessness and a failure to count the cost, with the result that the war cost the government more than it would have had such planning as now is going on been done.

In 1917 officers in charge of the purchase of a particular kind of material, shoes for instance, would be afraid that they might not have large enough supplies on hand and therefore overhought so they would not be accused of failing in their preparations. In time of war there is no pleasure in quibbling over such matters. The soldiers have to be equipped quickly at any cost. By means of this advance planning when the government has time to shop around and make the best bargains and determine to a nicety what will be enough to supply a given number of war units, all the confusion and waste is overcome. When an emergency of war now comes, if ever it does again, the whole industrial machine will be ready at a nod to carry out pre-arranged contracts, and within 24 hours from the time the signal is given the supplies will begin to flow smoothly in to the quartermaster depots. There will be no argument over prices for they will have all been determined in advance. The quantities will be foreknown and the quality duly established.

The same sort of planning in process in the quartermaster corps is being done by the ordnance department, the engineer corps and other branches of the army. In the case of munitions, the task is somewhat simpler as the lines of cooperation between the munition makers, the gun-makers and the government are more closely knit, there being a natural working affinity between these groups. It is the quartermaster corps which has the most difficult task.

Col. J. M. Wainwright, formerly Assistant Secretary of War, is given much of the credit for this forehanded action in carrying out Chairman Baruch's recommendations and putting the army on a business basis. He has resigned from the war department to enter congress from the 25th district of New York but still takes an active interest in the war planning and gives the army such assistance as it desires from him.

Under his direction 50 officers spent 9 months in figuring out the industrial mobilization plan which has been adopted by the general staff of the army and this plan, in its smallest detail, is being perfected and soon will be completed.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AFTER WINTER
It's a lovely world this morning, with the blue skies overhead. And the graceful tulips nodding all around us, white and red.

It's a kindly world this morning, with the orchards dressed in bloom. And the breezes stealing from them all their delicate perfume.

Skies have worn the garb of sorrow, and the winds have chilled us through. We have braved the snows of winter and our faith has faltered, too; But the sun shines out this morning, and the world is fair to see.

And there glows a touch of beauty on the humblest maple tree. Once my little yard was ugly, bleak and desolate. And the elm tree at my doorway seemed a symbol of despair; But today it glows with color and the tree in green is dressed.

And a pair of merry robins in its branches have their nest. Through the winter time of sorrow every man of us must go.

There must come to all the season when the clouds are hanging low. But there is no death to beauty and there is no death to peace.

Life shall bring us lovely mornings when the cruel storms shall cease. (Copyright 1923, by Edgar A. Guest)

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

"Sure I killed my husband," said the fair defendant. "Didn't I go home and find him cleaning his pipe with my gold hatpin?"

"Not guilty," screamed the twelve jurymen unanimously.

FROM OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENT.

Paris, April 1. She was known among her friends in New York as Jeanne. She had talent and when she was called to her mysterious city, Paris, they all wished her success.

She arrived in Paris and frequented the race courses, Longchamps, flat racing; Auteuil, steeplechase and Chantilly. She also frequented the various bars where they serve such wonderful beverages.

Art is art, but it does not excuse dissipation and poor Jeanne hardly knew the difference. It is better to be a telephone operator in a big hotel than an American in Paris with a weak artistic temperament.

We may expect more optimistic news from Europe now. The annual flock of American tourists is just beginning to arrive.

Cincinnati judge has sentenced a man to obey his wife for one year. Most of us serve much longer sentences than that.

Court of appeals in Washington decides that "sheiks" named as co-defendants in divorce cases, cannot be forced to pay court costs. Most of them have spent all they had before the matter ever gets up to the judge.

In Turkey a man caught drinking alcoholic liquor gets 30 strokes with a bastinado. Over here a man who drinks it now gets what is coming to him without any effort on the part of the authorities.

It is a ready and cunning from Atlantic City that one-piece bathing suits will not be allowed this year. But if the officials who made that announcement had consulted the dressmakers, they would have known better.

In a modern novel: "He left her suddenly and cast his eye out of the window." Ah, a hero with a glass eye!

The United States treasury has just ended its fiscal year with a surplus of $1,000,000,000. Congress apparently adjourned too soon, not knowing a thing about that surplus.

Who's Who Today

SIR LAMING WORTHINGTON EVANS

The recent appointment of Sir Laming Worthington Evans as postmaster general with a seat in the cabinet completed the formation of the official family of Stanley Baldwin, England's new premier.

Worthington Evans has amassed a fortune as a lawyer in the British courts. He attracted political attention some years ago when he attacked bitterly a national insurance scheme perfected by David Lloyd George while he was chancellor of the exchequer. Lloyd George soon decided he needed Worthington Evans' support and won him over.

When Lloyd George became premier, Sir Laming was made financial secretary of the war office. Later he became cabinet minister of blockade and then secretary of war.

Previous to the appointments under Lloyd George as premier Sir Laming had served, at the outbreak of the war, as controller of the foreign trade department of the foreign office. Later he entered the cabinet as minister.

He was born Aug. 23, 1868. He was elected to the lower house of parliament in 1910 from Colchester.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

June 4, 1883.—Report of the librarian of the Janesville Public Library shows that during the past month, fiction circulation was 1,767 volumes; travel and adventure, 55; miscellany, 32; history, 29; biography, 26; science, 20; poetry, 19; philosophy, 9; and translations, 2.—Board of education has asked for $4,500 for the coming year.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

June 4, 1893.—Six prisoners who escaped from the county jail Friday night are still free but police are working on several clues.—Directors on the Chicago and Northwestern road are coming here tomorrow on a tour of inspection. People here should corral them until they promise to put up a station in keeping with the revenue from this city.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

June 4, 1903.—Many Janesville people went to Rockford this morning to hear President Roosevelt speak.—During this week the new Carnegie library is open every afternoon for those to register who have moved in since city library. Thousands of sightseers—mostly Woodmen—are in the city today, the event being the annual picnic of this section.

TEN YEARS AGO

June 4, 1913.—Charles Schultz and William Drafiak, drivers in the fire department have resigned, making five within the past week to leave the fire and police force.—Directors were named at a meeting of the 25,000 club at the city hall last night. Harmony prevailed at this, its first meeting. Directors will now name permanent officers.

HOW TO MO DIFY MILK

In our last scolding about the feeding of the baby we harped on the points of difference between cows' milk and human milk—cows' milk having less sugar, less fat (fatness), more lime and other mineral salts, and a harder, tougher curd than are found in human milk. I say cows' milk merely because the milk from a herd is fairly good, better than milk of age quality than one cow's milk, though this is of little importance.

Suppose a baby three months old has just been weaned and wants to know what he's gonna have for dinner. He sits for this milkman and leaves a quart of the best he has, provided he has anything approved by your health officer. If it is certified milk the baby is in good luck. Certified milk is worth the premium you pay for it, as perfect health food for real babies.

If the dairies don't serve it certified in your town, and none of the neighbors keeps a cow or goat, perhaps you might consider getting a milk better than taking a chance on the dirty kinds. Pasteurization means heating milk to 140-145 degrees F., holding at that temperature for 30 minutes, then cooling again. This, if properly done, destroys any disease germs in the milk, germs from a diseased cow or germs which may be contributed by dirty or diseased persons who handle the milk between cow and consumer. Pasteurization is a compromise with filth. However, it is a necessary compromise.

Pasteurization doesn't improve the nutritive character of the milk. It doesn't increase the vitamin content of the milk. It doesn't make the milk more digestible. It is the opinion of many of the most competent authorities on nutrition and infant feeding that a questionable raw milk is better for infants feeding it than five minutes of pasteurization. So I'd scout around for some fresh raw milk, if this were my baby, and hold it at home, rather than use pasteurized milk. If our raw milk is pasteurized, it is a certified milk supply. It scarcely needs to be said that certified milk is pure and clean and wholesome and therefore needs no further treatment. The baby is hollering. On with his dinner.

Let the milk stand perhaps four hours, or until the cream rises. Dip the third out of the bottle by means of a little tin dipper (Chapin milk dipper) which enters the neck and holds an ounce—such a dipper is obtainable in suggestions of its use. We're scores. For a beginning it is well to make the formula rather weak, make it suitable for an infant perhaps half the age of our hypothetical youngster, and increase the strength as he shows himself capable of handling it.

Top milk 6 ounces
Sugar of milk (fatness) 1 ounce
Bovine water 14 ounces
Sugar of milk (fatness) must be purchased at the drugstore. Many pediatricians now advocate using ordinary cane sugar instead of sugar of milk, in the same quantity, for feeding very young infants. If the baby is puny or has undeveloped digestive efficiency one ounce of lime water may be added to the formula to help break up the curd, or to prevent the formation of large dense curds in digestion. After the age of two months oatmeal water or barley water is preferable for this purpose.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
How Legs Require Operation.
Can low legs be strengthened by an appliance? I saw something about a low leg brace at night. (M. M.)
Answer—Sometimes in children under years of age braces help to correct bowing of the legs, but in persons over that age nothing can straighten bow legs except an operation on the bones by a competent surgeon.

Healing the Ears.
What harm, if any, is caused by slapping children on the ears? Would it be better to injure the hearing? (Mrs. A. H.)
Answer—Yes, such an assault has seriously injured the hearing mechanism.

Pica.
My baby, aged 13 months, persists in eating dirt, sand, coal, ashes and eggshells. I am so anxious about her. Is there anything to be done? In her diet that would cause her to crave such things? (Mrs. W. L.)
Answer—Not necessarily. Such a perverted appetite is quite common in children who are anemic from any cause and sometimes in children who have been restricted to inadequate foods for too long a period. It is not alarming and usually passes as the child grows older. The only precaution you should take is to see that the child has access only to clean dirt.

To settle a dispute please repeat what you said about the X-ray. I have read it and am not sure I know what the trouble is now. (Anxious.)
Answer—I said that it is a very poor excuse for a father to know what his son's X-ray picture taken on suspicion, so to speak, but that an X-ray examination of the chest, when your doctor advises having it made, I also said that X-ray evidence by itself is often misleading. It may seem to show something when there is nothing there or it may show something when an operation discloses, say, well, nothing.

Are You Packing School Lunches?

The school child's food has a great deal to do with his rank in school. Right thinking depends on the right kind of food.

The noon lunch is one of the most important school problems. It should be, sufficiently nutritious to stimulate the appetite, nourishing enough to keep up the energies, and easy to digest.

The school lunch is thoroughly discussed by experts, with many practical suggestions, in a pamphlet now being distributed by this bureau. It contains various bills of fare for the basket lunch, suggestions as to proper methods of packing, and recipes for sandwiches, cookies, salads, and sweets.

This booklet is free. Send for your copy today.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:

As I sat in my car on Decoration day as the high school band played by I thought what a fine thing it would be if the citizens of Janesville would buy the children a uniform not an expensive one as they would outgrow them in a short time.

Now we have two large clothing manufacturers and if some was put up to them we can get a uniform.

HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, JUNE 4, 1923

Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day, for Neptune and Venus are both strongly benefic aspects.

The planetary rule is particularly forbidding to the plans of women, who should avoid taking any important steps while this configuration prevails.

It is a lucky wedding day, even though this month is supposed to be most fortunate for the aspiration of brides.

Neptune is in a place supposed to cause confusion of ideas and dissensions where women are concerned. During this sway there may be much mental depression and a tendency to believe the worst on all occasions.

Warning is given by the seers that destructive thoughts are responsible for the chaotic world conditions, and they counsel optimism.

Monopoly? No!

MONOPOLY is abhorrent to the minds of the American people and will not be tolerated by them.

Monopoly means arbitrary control; it means curtailing opportunities for the individual and such curtailment strikes at the root of American institutions.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is American to the core. It has no desire to achieve a monopoly, believing that, because of its carefully worked out plan of organization, its admitted efficiency in every department and its carefully trained, hard-working, loyal body of employees, it has no need for arbitrary control to meet any competitive condition which may arise.

The detailed service, the insistence upon quality, and the consistently fair price at which its products are sold, insure the Company its fair share of the business in ten Middle Western States where it is organized for service.

No organization can acquire a monopoly in the oil business. The source of supply of raw material is too scattered and its value is too great for any one company to get an effective control. Without such control monopoly is impossible.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is the largest single factor in the oil business of the Middle West. Yet, the principal source of its crude oil supply is in the hands of others.

Its competitors have twice as many service stations as it has, and about an equal number of bulk stations, while their combined refining capacity is more than five times that of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

To indicate the futility of attempting to monopolize the oil industry it is only necessary to quote the following paragraphs from the New York Journal of Commerce:

During 1921 there were organized 935 new oil companies, with a total capitalization of $1,255,675,000 and

During 1922, 784 new oil companies were organized with a capitalization of $1,639,6

Fort Holds League Lead, Pulling Perfect Squeeze Play

Miller's Trusty Willow Defeats Cats in Ninth; Edgerton Wins Victory

A perfectly executed squeeze play featuring a "dime novel" edition of the national pastime enabled Fort Atkinson to show another win in its bag over the Janesville Boosters and keep their record clean in the southern Wisconsin league on Sunday. Fort won 7 to 5.

Over at Deerfield, the Edgerton American legion took a 9 to 8 victory from the heavy hitting Deerfield gang. At Stoughton, Cambridge renewed its vigor and unearthing a win from the Stoughton legion, 8 to 3.

That game at Fort, the Stoughton legion, played in a broiling sun and before a wild, crowd-crushing gang of 700 was filled with everything that is published in the books. Roberts' crew of Robins were outlit two to one and yet the breaks went with them.

What an Ending

The whole story lies in the ninth inning. The Boosters of the Fort in the first frame and losing it to Fort in the second half of the same stanza, were trailing. The former soldiers held the Fort on top with a 5 to 2 lead as the start of the ninth came up. Janesville had been knocking Frank all over the lot. In fact they had up to that period made 14 hits to eight by Fort, yet they could not hit enough to keep performance to bring in any of the 16 men they had left on base.

Coming to bat in the final inning, the Janesville sluggers with a run in the first frame and losing it to Fort in the second half of the same stanza, were trailing. The former soldiers held the Fort on top with a 5 to 2 lead as the start of the ninth came up. Janesville had been knocking Frank all over the lot. In fact they had up to that period made 14 hits to eight by Fort, yet they could not hit enough to keep performance to bring in any of the 16 men they had left on base.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Rally in Sixth Inning Costly for Tanks, 13-3

After five innings of the baseball, the Janesville Tank Corps had five runs scored over on them in the sixth inning and lost to Elkhorn at 'The Pines', 13 to 3. Until that time, the score stood 1 to 1. Three hundred saw the contest.

In the sixth, Elkhorn started a rally with the aid of five errors, a passed ball and three infield hits and then a two bagger, in the first frame, the Tanks scored on a hit by Calloway and one by 'Bob' Lathrop and a sacrifice by Wolf.

The field was wet and slow, a slow roller was a sure infield hit. Korman, Elkhorn's third baseman, did some nice work in hitting and fielding, while the entire Elkhorn outcrop, of Smith, Mourouski and Nye, over hit and fielded among the best seen here. Elkhorn had won two out of three games for Elkhorn, Sunday, he fanned 15 of the tanks. Elkhorn's infield of Korman, Jack Dawson and Huff is snappy and one of the best in the state for a town of its size.
